ANSWER SHEET

Welcome to Puzzled Pint!

Puzzling Basics

Tonight your packet contains four puzzles. Each puzzle will somehow solve to a short word or phrase. If you're joining us for the first time tonight, please read our Puzzling Basics page by going to <http://www.puzzledpint.com/basics> or by scanning the QR code. Note the "How to solve" section that discusses puzzle techniques like indexing and using the code sheet, which should have been provided to you along with your packet.

Puzzled Pint is not a competitive event. We encourage you to ask Game Control (GC) for hints as often as you'd like. Our goal is for you to have fun, not to be frustrated!

While we like to theme our puzzle sets, most puzzles do not require special knowledge of the theme to solve them. Still, using the internet is completely allowed and even expected for some puzzles.

When you've solved all four puzzles, confirm your answers with GC, and you'll get the final meta-puzzle, which requires the previous puzzle answers to solve.

When you're all finished, please return this answer sheet to Game Control, along with your code sheet and any borrowed items like pencils, tape, or scissors. Returning your answer sheet with an accurate count of your team size will allow us to make sure that we have enough space for everyone at our venues in future months and that we have enough puzzle packets available. Additionally, you'll be able to see how your time ranks relative to other teams worldwide on our web site.

If you'd like to provide any feedback on your experience tonight, please scan the QR code on the right or visit <http://www.puzzledpint.com/feedback>.

Thanks, and we sincerely hope you enjoy your evening! — Puzzled Pint GC

Question of the Month:

For Puzzled Pint, do you think the puzzles on average so far for 2017 are:

- 1. Too Easy
- 2. Just Right
- 3. Too Hard

Clubs

Your friends dragged you to this new disco-themed dance club with a fancy light-up floor, which is fine for them and all, but you'd rather be having a pint than dancing to a musical number.

Welcome to “Five-minute Speed-Dating”, where the ladies always get to ask the first question. Trouble is, even if everyone makes sure to measure their words carefully, there is never a perfect match.

Serena “Gas pedal: use sparingly or always?”	Angelo “Don’t ask me to take out the trash.”
Ingrid “Are you close with your exes?”	Bort “Give me a shout if you change your mind.”
Zelda “Can I share your food?”	Chuck “I don’t believe this scone is gluten-free.”
Elizabeth “Do you know how to dance?”	Duke “I only read prose, rhyming is lame.”
Francesca “What sport do you play?”	Engelbert “Last time I worked out, I ached for a week.”
India “Do you prefer youth or experience?”	Falstaff “My ideal vacation is watching TV.”
Valerie “What is your favorite radio station?”	Gunther “No trail is too difficult for me to hike.”
Emiko “Do you date ladies who flirt?”	Howie “They aired my ad during the Oscars.”

The dame's eyes were blood-shot and she obviously hadn't slept in days. She told me her husband (see photo) had been bludgeoned and left for dead. When I went to look at his office, it had been ransacked - turns out he had been working on an important coding mission for the feds, and counter-agents desperately wanted the cipher key. He was visited by several suspicious characters the week before. The first was an absolutely filthy criminal who ran with the Goober Gang. Then the bartender at Samuel's Tap came by to settle an outstanding tab (he still hadn't upgraded to a phone). Next "Lights-out" Louis laid himself out on the couch, sharing how he felt. The last known visitor was one of the guy's old sailing buddies, who was asking about the local pennant race. I'm not sure which of the four the perp is, but one thing's for sure, I've got to find the code key (ignoring the many red herrings in the office) before the crooks do!
