

Another Day at the Office

Jim and Pam took a three hour lunch break. The boss's friend saw them at a bar and told the boss that his coworkers spent several hours drinking pitchers of beer and playing games. When Jim and Pam got back to the office, their boss confronted them.

Jim: " Only one game of darts, I promise. We spent the rest of the time talking about work. And I'm so sober I remember the entire game. Pam went first and hit a 40, 52, and 48. I followed with a 54, 39, and 38. Pam got a 50, 32, and 31, which I returned with a 49, 41, and 45. Pam threw a 20, 27, and 44 on her third round, and I had a 36, 20, and 44. My dismal round was met by a 57, 38, and 41 by Pam. My fourth set was a 22, 26, and 37. And then Pam hit a bullseye to end the game." The boss knew they were lying to him. And he knew what they did on their lunch break. What was it?

