

One Big Bed

After a long day's worth of adventuring, our heroes collapsed into one big bed, hoping to get a good night's sleep. They all shared, with each person having one quarter of the bed. All of them were lying in different positions on the bed.

After they woke up, they played a game where they each told three truths and one lie about where they slept. What did our adventurers get?

Lies are circled
