

Backgammon

The Black and White players are both ready to start playing, but neither of them really knows how to play Backgammon, so they make up their own rules. The only thing they agree on is what's about to happen.

Black

- Tennis stroke with one's palm facing the stroke direction
- Legal process by which a lender seizes a house with a mortgage
- From the elbow to the wrist
- Male head of a jury
- In literature, give a hint of what is yet to come
- Ability to anticipate what is needed

White

- Accumulation of uncompleted work
- Illuminated from behind
- Attack or discredit someone in an underhanded or secret way
- Place where deals are done or decisions are made in secret
- Has the reverse effect from what was desired or expected
- Painted cloth hung at the rear of a theater stage
- Spines
