

Among all five materials,  is one of the most precious commodities in the early game. You identify all the types of trees available, marking exactly where you'll cut each one down. Your opponents are asking for your next move, so what's left to do?

