

Fear factor

After a weeklong game show marathon, Walter's ready to face his ultimate challenge. His prior experience suggests that being as bug-free as possible is the key to coping with the hell that awaits.

In just a moment's time, Walter and his beloved Gracie will be buried in coffins six feet underground with a few 'friends' scurrying around in all directions to keep them company.

As the regret sinks in, Walter begins to think about why he signed up for the show in the first place and wonders if he can think of the ultimate way of surviving this show...

