

OAR HEIGHTS

Keeping the boat set is important. When a team is rowing together, what an oar sounds like when it enters the water is beautiful. To accomplish this, we must all put our oars in at the same time and at the same height in the water. As I look at the water level, it is obvious we have a lot of work to get our hands level and our oar heights the same. If we don't fix this and get smooth and in sync, I know one place we will go.

Clues are alphabetical by answers:

- Person devoted to reading
- Opposite of ceilings
- Calculate or predict a future weather event
- One's male ancestors
- A Clydesdale is a type of this
- Entertainer or actor
- An artist's resume or an investor's listing of stocks
- Messiah or hero
- The day two days after yesterday
- Someone popping in for a short time, or what you call a team at an away game