

LAKE ROWING PRACTICE

Time to use our rowing skills on the lake. Eight of us went out with a coxswain. The coxswain is the person who helps guide the boat and gives word commands to row on the square or feather, and to motivate us. As we headed out onto the lake, it was chaotic. I could not tell how we weaved through the lake. I just know that we always went straight or took 90 degree turns and never went back to any place we had been before. A few spectators were watching from the shore and commented how many times we were in view. The coxswain yelled letters to indicate what we just saw. It did not make sense at the time, but when we returned to the boat house, I noticed that there was a sign that indicated what commands the coxswain calls depending on the obstacles we passed between.

Each answer must be placed into the grid so it appears both across and down.

- Guide a vessel or male bovine
- Not those
- Number of black pawns in chess, or the atomic number of oxygen
- Rounds of races in a track or swimming event
- To concur

1	•	•	•	•	•	•
1	•	•	•	•	•	•
6	•	•	•	•	•	•
3	•	•	•	•	•	•
6	•	•	•	•	•	•
4	•	•	•	•	•	•
1	•	•	•	•	•	•
3		2	4	5	4	4